

Prof. Danny Quah

Professor of Economics & International Development

"A leading specialist on economic growth and international development"

Danny Quah is Professor of Economics and International Development and a highly respected figure in the world of economics and governance. Prof. Quah is Senior Advisor to the Director of the LSE and is also Tan Chin Tuan Visiting Professor at National University of Singapore.

TOPICS:

- The Global Economy and the Rise of the East
- Economic Growth and Wealth Creation
- Government Policy on Science and Technology
- Technology and Economic Growth
- Life in Unequal, Growing Economies
- Corporate Governance

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

IN DETAIL:

Prof. Quah is a leading specialist on the global economy, economic growth and development, income inequality, international economic relations, economic geography, and the economic impact of new technologies. He has consulted for, among others, the World Bank, the Bank of England and the Monetary Authority of Singapore. He also served on Malaysia's National Economic Advisory Council between 2009 and 2011. His other roles include serving on the Editorial Boards of East Asian Policy, Journal of Economic Growth and Global Policy, and on the Advisory Board of OMFIF Education.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Danny Quah has made huge contributions across a very wide range of areas, ranging from time-series econometrics, business cycles, inflation, and international income inequality to technology and economic growth. He regularly speaks around the world on his focus subjects, including global governance and inequality in economic growth.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Exceedingly passionate about economics and global governance, Danny introduces his audience to new thinking in a fluid and relaxed style, being both articulate and soft-spoken.