- Is Multiculturalism Dead?
- History of the Present

IN DETAIL:

One of Britain’s most influential and admired commentators, Timothy is the author of eleven books of political writing or ‘history of the present’. Beyond his role as Professor at the University of Oxford, he is also Professorial Fellow at St Antony’s College in Oxford and a Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University. He writes a weekly column on international affairs in the Guardian which is syndicated globally. Timothy’s work has earned him numerous awards and honours including the George Orwell Prize and the Charlemagne Prize.

LANGUAGES:

Timothy presents in English, German and Polish

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Considered a leading voice on democracy, contemporary European history and global politics, Timothy offers audiences his expert views on exactly why the United States can never rule the world on its own, why the new, enlarged Europe can only realise its aspirations in a larger, transatlantic community and why the conflicts in the Middle East and the rise of Asia can only be addressed by a wider community of democracies. Sweeping historical insight related in his own conversational style, help his incisive commentary on world affairs stand apart from its competitors.

PUBLICATIONS:

- 2023 Homelands
- 2009 Facts are Subversive: Political Writing from a Decade without a Name
- 2017 Free Speech: Ten Principles for a Connected World

HOW HE PRESENTS:

A compelling and enlightening speaker, few historians match Professor Timothy Garton Ash for his combination of clarity and reportorial brilliance. His superlative presentations defy conventional wisdom and challenge contemporary thinking.
